RACE MOON SEPTEMBER

JODRELL UMPIRE COMPETITION

London, Aug. 18. British radio telescope scientists tonight forecast that Russians would launch a moon rocket on September 12. And America's Defence Department ordered another moon rocket. to be fired from Cape Canaveral on September 14.

HE SWAM TO SAVE

London, Aug. 18. Four years ago, eightyear-old John Haywood, who lives in Derby, saw his young brother drown In a river near his home because he could not swim out to save him. And there's not another of comparable efficiency in the world they could call upon.

Close Flight

Lovell—has—already made it clear that the Americans will on September 12, Lovell would have the first use of Jodrell Bank. Chapman Pincher writes that with Jodrell Bank and other fixes from different points in Russia, the Soviets would be able to work out the rocket's exact position. This might be necessary, not only to keep track of the missile, but to fire-by radio control-small auxiliary rockets which will put the final stage in orbit ground the moon. Evidence suggests that they will attempt a close flight around the moon rather than a direct hlt. Most likely, the launching site is the northern shore of the Caspian Sen, where the Russians are believed to have launched the Sputniks.

At this latitude, about 45 degrees north, it will be more difficult for them to get a rocket on course than for the Americans firing from Florida.—

SCOTTISH ISLAND PRIZE

New York, Aug. 18. The producers of a television puzzle programme decided today to drop their controversial plan to give away the Scottish island of Storm as a prize in their weekly contest. Nows that the tiny island was to be given away as a prize on the "Bid 'N Buy" quiz pro-gramme aroused a storm of protest from Scots on both sides of the Atlantic, and this prompted the sponsors of the programme, a cosmetics manufacturer firm, to reconsider the whole idea.

The decision to withdraw the ference between the programme's producer, Mr Robert Stivers, and the sponsors.

The Sponsors The sponsors were believed to have had an eyo on their future British sales. Mr Stivers announced last week that he had purchased the Island off northeast Scottish coast from a Yorkshire businessman and planned to offer it as a prize on his programme. # HER BATTLE

Still life at Rapallo . . . the Fanglos get away from it all.

Looking at the above photo you would say that here are two happy people. And you would be right.

Look especially at Mrs Fangio scated here by the side of her -- husband on their motor boat at Rapallo.

He has abandoned car racing -for ever. And so she was saying recently to reporters, "Now we have a holiday without fear, without cables, without telephones, without agents, without managers...but most of all without tension."

cannot be easy for a woman like this to accept that such a decision from a man like Juan is final.

When the tragic news of Peter Collins death became known to them she wept and asked her husband to promise yet again before a Madonna that he would never race again. "We have had enough of it," she said with finality. Fangio promised.

So there is reason why this picture is full of happiness. The worry has gone. Mrs Fangio, by the way, oncourages her husband to smoke. She says it's "an outlet" for any tension that may be left over from

SPAT ON PC's BOOTS

For spitting on a policeman's boots, Sze Fel-pang, 18, unemployed, was fined $10 by Mr E. Corbally at Central Magistracy this morning.

A charge of using abusive language against him was dismissed when the prooffered no secution evidence.

The prosecution stated that last Tuesday in Java Street, defendant was acting in a suspicious manner. A constable searched him and after he was allowed to go, defendant turned around and spat the constable's boots.

Hongkong will soon have an American factory turning out 12 million vials of drugs a year, for sale to Southeast Asian countries. The opening of this factory will mean two things for Hongkong. One, a number of medical graduates of the University of Hongkong will be employed there, and two, the price of streptomycin, a drug used extensively in Hongkong to combat tuberculosis, will be lowered.

The HK$4 million factory is now nearing completion in Aberdeen, and is expected to begin production sometime in early 1959. The building construction is costing $1 million and equipping the completed plant is expected to cost between three and four million dollars.

SEA TRIP FOR A CASK SHERRY

This cask of sherry being examined in this photograph by the ship's Second Officer, Mr H. Robertson, was brought to Hongkong yesterday on the Ben Lomond. The cask contains 245 litres of high quality dry sherry. But it will not be put ashore here. It will be taken back to England after the ship has called at Formosa.

Reason for this strange cargo? Years ago it was found that sherry matured quicker on a sea voyage. Many were carried by the China tea clippers travelling in ballast for their Eastern
